Revenue Per Customer

Indicates significant upsell potential

- ❏ A large customer base with relatively low revenue per customer signals a clear opportunity to increase average order value through upselling, cross-selling, and targeted promotions.

Subscription Status: A Major Untapped Opportunity

Key Insight

73% of customers are not enrolled in any subscription or loyalty program — representing a significant recurring revenue gap.

Recommended Actions

- Introduce subscriber-only discounts and early access perks
- Create a tiered loyalty rewards program
- Use email campaigns to convert one-time buyers
- Highlight exclusive benefits at checkout

Product Category Performance

What the Data Tells Us

Clothing leads as the strongest revenue driver, followed by Accessories. Outerwear significantly underperforms at just $20K.

Business Actions

- Double down on Clothing and Accessories marketing spend
- Investigate Outerwear underperformance — pricing, seasonality, or product variety?
- Consider bundling Outerwear with top-selling Clothing items

Payment Method Preferences

PayPal

Most preferred — fast, trusted, and widely adopted

Credit Card

Second most used — convenient for larger purchases

Cash

Still relevant for certain customer segments

Bank Transfer

Least used — creates friction and slows checkout

Recommendation: Promote digital payment options at checkout. Consider offering small cashback incentives for PayPal or credit card use to further reduce friction.

Most Purchased Products

Blouse

Shirt

Pants

Jewelry

Sweater

Skirt

Shoes

Jacket

Key Observation

Demand is broadly distributed across product types — no single item dominates sales. This indicates a diverse customer base with varied preferences.

Strategic Actions

- Bundle complementary items (e.g., Blouse + Skirt, Shirt + Pants)
- Deploy product recommendation engines at checkout
- Use purchase history to personalize email campaigns

Seasonal Revenue Trends

Seasonal Pattern

Revenue shows a steady upward trend across seasons, with Summer contributing the highest sales. This signals strong seasonal demand that can be capitalized on with proactive planning.

Recommended Actions

- Increase inventory levels before the Summer peak
- Launch seasonal campaigns 4–6 weeks earlier
- Plan promotional calendars around seasonal highs

Executive Summary

✔ Positive Findings

- Strong 1.52M customer base
- Clothing and Accessories perform very well
- Revenue grows steadily across seasons
- Digital payments widely adopted

⚠ Areas for Improvement

- 73% of customers not subscribed
- Outerwear sales are weak
- Bank transfer usage is low
- Gender and shipping data needs deeper analysis
